

From: (q)Charles Hethcoat(q) (060)Charles Hethcoat
To: RFC-822=verify@kegel.com.microsoft.atr@usdoj.gov@i...
Date: 1/25/02 12:36pm
Subject: Microsoft Settlement

Name: Charles L. Hethcoat III
City: Houston
State: Texas
Title: Concerned citizen; Senior Engineer/Stress Analysis
Organization: Currently unemployed

To Whom It May Concern:

I have signed Dan Kegel's Open Letter to the DOJ because I fully agree with it. Microsoft is being rewarded, not punished. Now, as a part of this goofy "settlement," the Pied Piper of Redmond is geing given the next generation of school children to do with as he wishes.

I say it's spinach and I say to Hell with it.

Cheers.

Charles Hethcoat

verify@kegel.com writes:

- > Thanks for joining my open letter to the DOJ!
- > To make sure nobody is using your email account without permission, I need
- > you to reply to this message and fill in the following fields
- > as you would like them to appear in the open letter:
- >
- > Name:
- > City:
- > State:
- > Title:
- > Organization:
- >
- > (For instance:
- > >Name: Jane Doe
- > >City: Seattle
- > >State: WA
- > >Title: Senior Analyst
- > >Organization: Boeing)
- >
- > This will both verify that you really do want to sign my open
- > letter (<http://www.kegel.com/remedy/letter.html>), and let me
- > process your request more efficiently.
- >
- > I apologize for using a form letter, and making you re-send your
- > information, but this appears to be the only way I can deal with > the overwhelming number of responses I've received before the deadline.

>
> I encourage you, if you have not already done so, to send a quick > note directly to the DOJ by fax or email (see <http://www.kegel.com/remedy> > for how) summing up your point of view and endorsing my open letter.
> That will help convince the DOJ and the judge that you are serious, > and provide insurance against possible problems with submission of > the open letter.
>
> Sincerely,
> Dan Kegel
>